

Museum Essentials: Working with Collections

Stella Mann transcript

My name is Stella Mann I am the Museum Development Officer at Glenside Hospital Museum in Bristol. My aspiration for our collection is that we develop it to use it more effectively to destigmatise mental illness, which we know we can do as we've been experimenting with that and the public are responding really well. So its that's partly to do with outreach, partly to do with online and partly to do with the interpretation of the collection within the museum.
